Wharf Improvements

Mayor McCormack contemplates improving the local wharf for the benefit of the local fish shippers, by driving another row of piles on the inside of the "L" on the end of the wharf and erecting thereon a building for the packing and storing of fish. The present arrangement of the wharf is not very convenient for the fish men, and the change will make it very handy for them.

Tells Big Fish Story

M. A. McNurney, of the local cable office, was a Ketchikan visitor last week. There's nothing wonderful about that, but there is about the stories he tells of the big fish he and "Henry Clay" Horsley of the Ketchikan cable caught. The only thing lacking is a photograph of the string.

Below is a copy of the original letter written by Delegate James Wickersham to the Guggenheims, asking them for employment.

JAMES WICKERSHAM,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Fairbanks, Alaska, April 8th, 1908.

Stephen Birch, Esq.,
Seattle, Wash.

My Dear Mr. Birch:

Your letter of March 17th has been received and I hasten my answer that it may catch the last mail out over the ice. I regret that I cannot meet you in Seattle the latter part of this month, because one can make one's ideas plainer in conversation than by writing, but since the opening of the April term of court prevents it, I shall briefly state the matter by letter.

I have entered upon the practice of law here, and represent some of the most important interests in the territory, and the outlook for returns is satisfactory, still I long for the flesh pots of "the outside," and would accept an offer from your allied Alaska interests to act as their General Counsel, but not in any subordinate capacity. I will accept a three-year contract at $15,000 per annum with offices in Seattle and office force and maintenance. Upon that sort of arrangement I would devote my time exclusively to their interests, and give them the best service possible. My opportunities here, however, are so good that I could not afford to give them up for less than a three-year contract with you. Please advise me by wire if anything is done in connection with this offer and it may be thus arranged.

Remember me kindly to Captain Jarvis.

Very truly,

JAMES WICKERSHAM.

Cannery Help Strike

Owing to the fact that the food served to them was insufficient and improperly cooked, 29 of the employees of the local cannery went on strike last Saturday. They were Filipinos and Mexicans and the cooking of the Chinese cook didn't look good to them. Lee Young, the Chinese boss, promised to remedy the trouble, so the crowd with the exception of three or four returned to work Tuesday morning.

No Place Like Home

Mrs. J. E. Worden, who with the children, is visiting her mother and other relatives in Seattle, writes up that she will return on the next Humboldt. She went down intending to remain until after the middle of August, but the heat and smoke and dust are proving altogether too much.

Breaks A Rib

Poor old "King George" the blind native, sustained a bad fall in front of Tom Tamaree's house Tuesday evening. He was going home with his customary load of fire wood when in some manner he lost his bearings and stepped off the sidewalk, falling to the ground below. Dr. Shurick was summoned and examined the old fellow's hurts and found that he had broken one rib and sustained a bad shaking up in addition.

NOT DEPENDABLE

On another page of this week's Sentinel appears the text of a letter written by James Wickersham in which he offers to sell himself, his friends and whatever influence he might have in Alaska to the Guggenheims for $45,000.00. The language of that letter is so plain and unequivocal that there is no way in which he can dodge it, so he makes no attempt to, and today it stands as a warning to the voters of Alaska, of what this man is willing to do in case circumstances make it possible, that he is ready and willing to sell out to the highest bidder. The attempt has been made to excuse that letter by saying that it was purely a matter of business, and anyway it was before he even contemplated running for the delegateship. Probably it was a matter of business as he sees it, but how does it appear to the average voter when he sees the attitude of the man toward those who refused to even consider his offer.

As for the claim that it was before he contemplated running for Congress, such is not the case, as as the following, the copy of a telegram sent by Wickersham.

Fairbanks, June 23, 1908
Capt. D. H. Jarvis,
Seattle, Wash.,
I intend to run for Congress.
Where is Birch?
James Wickersham.

Here is Wickersham as he actually exists. Why did he send this telegram? Could it have been for any other purpose than either to blackmail them into giving him the situation he sought in the letter shown on the front page of this week's Sentinel, or to prepare the way to act as their hirling in Congress when he was elected? It must have been one or the other, either one traitorous to the best interests of Alaska.

Here it is, he offered to sell out once to the very people he now so roundly abuses, and the only logical thing to conclude is that he will sell out again if he gets the chance. "Slippery Jim" he has been named and "Slippery jim" he is. In no sense is he worthy the consideration of the voters of Alaska. A vote for Wickersham is a vote to continue the country in the turmoil he has kept stirred up for the past several years, while a vote for Ed. S. Orr is a vote for a man who is square and in every way dependable.

Herewith the Sentinel publishes the platform of the Wickersham convention at Juneau, June 30, at the request of Capt. L. M. Churchill.

The columns of this paper are open to all, hence we print the platform notwithstanding the fact that we have no use for the man who no doubt framed the said platform,

James Wickersham. We believe that he exhibited his usual insincerity when he gave that platform birth, because we are satisfied that outside the fact that it has heretofore furnished a vehicle for him to ride to Washington in, he has absolutely neither use for nor interest in Alaska nor Alaskans. If you have any doubts on this question, read over the fourth paragraph, that demanding the abolition of Alaskan Forestry Reserves. It's easy to make resolutions and platforms, but what action has he taken or even attempted along this line.

When he was here a year or so ago he promised to do his utmost to relieve the conditions as far as the timber reserve is concerned—will somebody who knows please tell us what he has done. The same is true of his promises to some of his most enthusiastic supporters here in Wrangell. They asked him to help them out in the townsite matter here. He was prodigal in his promises. They waited for him to put some of those promises into effect, and are still waiting—Good old Knute Nelson is responsible for whatever action has been taken. Wickersham NEVER EVEN TRIED.

But why waste time by going further, here is the communication as received:

Wrangell, Alaska, July 23, '10
Editor Sentinel:—

Please publish the enclosed platform as adopted by the convention at Juneau, June 30, 1910.

L. M. CHURCHILL.

We, the Republicans of the District of Alaska, in convention assembled at Juneau, this 30th day of June, 1910, hereby reaffirm and adopt the platform of the National Republican Party in convention assembled at Chicago in 1908.

We indorse the legislative program of the Honorable James Wickersham, Delegate to Congress from Alaska, and approve of the actions taken by him in preventing the enactment of laws which tend to restrict the rights of the people of this territory.

The people of Alaska are peaceable, industrious, law-abiding and patriotic citizens of the United States. In 1909 Alaska's output of gold and fish amounted to more than $30,000,000; her trade with the United States amounted to more than $52,000,000 cash; the trade of the Philippines was but $26,000,000, and that of China, through the famous "Open Door" was but $48,000,000. Every white man, woman and child in Alaska has a trade value of $1302.00 to the United States; the Hawaiians $277 each; the Porto Ricans $48 and the Philippines but $3.30. Forty-five thousand Americans of such value are worthy of an elective legislative assembly in furtherance of their efforts to extend the development of the unlimited resources of this great great Territory, and we, therefore, favor the creation by Congress of an elective legislative assembly in Alaska; we approve the general scope and plan of the bill introduced for that purpose by our Delegate in Congress, the Honorable James Wickersham; we earnestly protest against the passage of the bill which provides for the appointment by the President of a legislative council to be composed in part of military officers, and we instruct our Delegate in Congress to spare no effort to defeat its enactment into law.

We favor the abandonment of forest reservations in Alaska, because they are unnecessary, unwise and only retard the growth of the Territory, and their continuance is not necessary to protect the water supply for the people.

We demand the protection of the fisheries of Alaska so that there may be the greatest output and development consistent with the certain continuation of the supply; and we also favor such amendments of the law will encourage, build up and perpetuate a permanent fishing population in Alaska.

We denounce the attempt of the Alaska Syndicate to procure a monopoly of Alaska coal lands through fraud in their location; we denounce their criminal action stuff the ballot box in the last election; in corrupting our courts, bribing witnesses and officials, shooting unarmed and innocent laboring men engaged in building railroads in Alaska for other companies and wilfully destroying private property for the advancement of their private ends. We call upon the Department of Justice and its officials to investigate these matters and to prosecute all persons guilty of crime connected therewith.

We demand the immediate issuance of patent to coal claims in Alaska located in good faith and strenuously condemn the fanatical action of our government in withholding title on the pretext of conservation, and to his end pray for the immediate abrogation of the illegal order of withdrawal of coal lands in Alaska from legitimate entry, that the pioneers, prospectors and citizens of this Territory may in their lifetime derive some benefit from their labor and toil in honestly striving to develop the sources of our vast country.

We believe that laws should be enacted to protect the mine owners as well as to safeguard those that are employed to work in the mines.

We further strongly recommend that a liberal appropriation be made by Congress for the construction of wagon-roads and trails throughout Alaska.

We ask that inland waterways, as well as the outside, should be properly marked to insure safe travel.

We ask that the appropriations be continued to build roads and trails to outlying mining camps.

We favor a small tax on the output of coal and other minerals, a part of the proceeds from this tax to be used to pay the Mining Inspectors, while the remainder be applied to maintain a school of mines for Alaska.

We recognize the necessity and propriety of encouraging the investment of capital in Alaska for the development of its resources, and favor all legislation tending to that end.

We endorse the efforts of the Bureau of Education to improve the health and sanitary conditions of the native people; and we approve of their further education along native and industrial lines. To further extend this work, we hereby pledge our support to the enactment of necessary legislation especially in securing the passage of an appropriate sanitary law. We further pledge our support to strict enforcement of law relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors to Indians.

We believe in the principles as advocated by the Republican Party in the past and we denounce the secret star-chamber methods adopted by a few self-styled Republicans in Alaska under the leadership of the present national committeeman, wherein by betraying the trust reposed in them as servants of our party they have by collusion and fraud sought to deprive the great majority of true Republicans of the right and privilege of representation in the nomination by the Republican Party of a Delegate for Alaska.
